Work in modes 1-8 looks like this.

Switching memory cells forward / backward - buttons 1 and 3, respectively. Erasing the code from the selected cell - holding button 2. If the cell is empty, reception is automatically turned on. When a signal is received, the device vibrates twice and displays the type of received alarm on the display. If the received signal is already in the memory, the device vibrates briefly and shows the number of the cell in which this signal is recorded in the right edge of the display.

If the cell is empty, you can switch the frequency of reception with button 4, enable or disable the simultaneous reception of AM and FM with button 5 (only in the first mode), enable or disable auto mode (hold button 3).

If a signal is recorded in the cell, the buttons are opened and controlled by buttons 4,5,6. Shortly 4 - close, long 4 - the accepted command, short 5 - open, long 5 - trunk / additional functions (not on all systems), short 6 - autostart / trunk (not on all systems).

Long 6 - exit back to the menu

Briefly 2 - quick switching between modes 1, 2 and 3 (AM + FM + Staff, FM staff and VAG)

Enabling or disabling feedback jamming - simultaneously holding buttons 4 and 5, while the Jamm indicator lights up on the display. Catch code

- simultaneous pressing 4 + 6, the display will catch up with the catch-up code, after which the next sent command will be increased by 50 counter clicks.

Useful when opening occurs a long time after recording.

In sleep mode, shows the clock and date. Record in 0 cell of your signaling or gate and in the off state the ability to use without causing suspicion.

4-digit pin code with input on the display (i.e. you see what you enter)

Instructions for barriers Came and Nice.

Enumeration mode for Came and Nice barriers.

In order to select the code for the Came or Nice barrier (not all models, only those controlled by Came Top, Nice Flo remotes), you need to select the appropriate mode. After entering the start search mode for Came - button 4, for Nice - button 5. The selected cell must be empty.

After you started the search, you need to stand at the barrier and wait until it opens. As soon as it opens, you should immediately press and hold button 2, the search will stop. Next, you need to wait until the barrier itself closes, then press and hold button 1 (rewind), hold it until the barrier opens again, then immediately release the button. Next you can check the selected code by pressing and holding button 5, the barrier should open. Saving the selected code - pressing the button 4.

For Nice barriers, busting looks exactly the same, only it lasts longer (Came - about 10 minutes, Nice - about 20 minutes). It is started by pressing button 5 immediately after entering enumeration mode, on an empty memory cell
